RAIL AND COAL STRIKES IN U. S. GROW WORSE, HARDING ACTS

President Tells Mine Owners To Open Shafts

DEBS OUT AGAIN

Socialist Leader Again Defies Government

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, July 18.—A delegation of bituminous coalowners informed President Harding yesterday that the majority of the owners accepted the President's arbitration proposals. President Harding is understood to have told the delegation to go home and begin operation of the mines immediately.

(China Press Service)

Washington, July 17.—Bituminous coal operators committee told President Harding that they accepted his proposal for arbitration. It is understood that the President has ordered them to reopen the mines immediately.

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, July 17.—Peace prospects in the national railroad strike are diminishing with the addition of approximately 100,000 railroad workers to the ranks of the strikers. Negotiations for a settlement are at a standstill and many believe that the nation this week will meet the greatest industrial crisis in its history.

Some 75,000 workers in New York's switching area, along with 10,000 stationary engineers and oilers are walking out this morning together with clerks, freight handlers and others from all over the country.

The coal shortage is greatly aggravating the situation.

Seventy shop employees of the Chicago, Minneapolis and St. Paul and several policemen are suffering from the effects of poison after eating food served to strike-breakers. Health officers are conducting a drastic investigation, and orders have been cancelled.

Eugene V. Debs, Socialist leader, and head of the great railroad union strike issued a statement to the railroad strikers including the words:

"Now is the time for us to strike together, vote together, and fight together."

OLD STUFF FROM DEBS

Debs referring to the government announcement against violence and the mobilisation of the national guard in several states, adds.

"You'll have no trouble in guessing what kind of action is meant on the part of national and state governments which you shouted for, voted for, invested your last dollar for, crossed the Atlantic to fight and if necessary die for.

"This same group is ready to shoot you down like dogs. The struggle is entering the critical stage and whether the toiling hosts will emerge triumphant depends entirely upon the capacity of workers to stand together, strike together, and fight together all along the line."

The administration is preparing to take drastic action on the coal strike within 48 hours. It is understood that President Harding is of the opinion that as the miners have refused government arbitration, public interest demands the immediate reopening of the mines.

It is understood that the President is preparing to direct operators to reopen the mines under the protection of federal troops with the American flag planted at the entrance of each mine.

It was said that the same methods will be used in dealing with the railroad strike if conditions do not improve soon.

The Big Four Railroad system has posted notices announcing the cancellation of all contracts for handling freight in freight houses as soon as it can be done legally.

Wheeling, West Virginia, July 17.—The action of the strikers in setting fire to part of the Richland colliery today led to fighting in which ten persons were killed including the sheriff and several of his agents.

The battle ended with a charge headed by the sheriff who was killed, whereupon the strikers fled. The sheriff's son, who with a force was defending the mine when his father fell, was sworn in as sheriff and has taken charge of the situation. Many wounded are arriving in the hospitals.

She Slapped Navy Captain's Face

MRS. M. Leland Stanford, Jr., wife of a multi-millionaire Californian, testified in court she slapped the face of Captain Hyland, U. S. N., when he said she was not "a lady." Charges were preferred against the officer, and the case was heard in a Long Beach (Cal.) court.

BANK MEN WILL JOIN BENEDICTS AT BUCHAN HOME

Philip Klingsmith And Miss Ames And N. E. Mullen And Miss Falk To Be Married

Dan Cupid, adventuring into the swirls of high finance of this part of the world, recked not of the current rate of exchange, but held strictly to his own line of business, and so it falls out today that a double wedding is being celebrated at the home of Mr. R. Buchan, General Manager of the Asia Banking Corporation.

In the two ceremonies that will be conducted at the Buchan residence at 5 o'clock this afternoon Mr. N. E. Mullen, Assistant Manager of the Asia Banking Corporation, and Miss Rose Falk are to be married, and Mr. Philip Klingsmith, who is connected with the Peking branch of the Asia Banking Corporation and Miss Betty Ames of Roswell, New Mexico are to wed. Miss Falk has been a resident of Shanghai for some time while Miss Ames has been in Shanghai only since Sunday, having arrived on the Empress of Canada of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, one of three brides-to-be who made the voyage on the queen ship of the Canadian Pacific Line from America.

Mr. Muller and Miss Falk will be married by the Rev. A. N. Rowland, pastor of the Union Church, and Mr. Klingsmith and Miss Ames will be married by the Rev. W. P. Roberts of St. John's University. Following the two ceremonies a reception is to be held at the house after which both couples will depart for Peking.

Three Accused Of Assaulting Tung

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 18.—The Procurate Court has found a case against Wan Wen-tsao, Wan Chung-wen and Liu Yeh-hsien, who will shortly appear before the local court charged with assaulting Mr. Tung Kang, the Minister of Finance. Wan Wen-tsao and Wan Chung-wen were recently dismissed from the Ministry of Communications and Liu Yeh-hsien from the Ministry of Finance.

Deny That Wu Pei-fu Plans Expedition

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 18.—The Government has telegraphed to the Hangchow Chamber of Commerce denying the report in Shanghai vernaculars that General Wu Pei-fu contemplates an expedition against Chekiang. The denial recalls the fact that Chekiang has not been involved in any civil strife since the revolution for which it must be congratulated. Neither the Government nor General Wu Pei-fu ever thought of attacking Chekiang.

'Honors' Question Again In Commons

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 18.—The long controversy on the conferment of honors was ventilated in the Houses of Commons and Lords last night where motions, standing in the name of a large and influential section of members, were debated. The Premier announced the appointment of a Royal Commission to assist Dominions Prime Ministers in recommending honors.

The Government had decided to make the voting question of confidence but the motion in the House of Commons was talked out and that in the House of Lords

EMPLOYERS OF FINANCE DEP'T OUT AT PEKING AS RIOT ECHO

Resent Failure Of Cabinet To Punish Leader

TUNG ON LEAVE

Minister Says He Is Being Made Official "Goat"

BY JOSEF W. HALL,
Staff Correspondent the China Press

Peking, July 18.—All employes of the Finance Ministry are on strike today as a protest against the failure of the cabinet to punish the rioters who injured Finance Minister Tung Kang Saturday. Tung Kang visited the President today, demanding acceptance of his resignation and declaring that the whole cabinet is making him the goat.

The president refused but a compromise has been effected whereby Tung Kang is to get a five day "political vacation." It is doubtful whether Vice-Minister Shan can persuade the employes of the ministry to resume work. In the meantime all the Finance Ministry offices are closed.

Wrangle Over $29,000 Drafts In Mixed Court

Suit for $29,000 for bank drafts, which, he alleged, he had lost, was brought in the Mixed Court before Japanese Assessor Tanaka and Magistrate Loh yesterday by Ling Seu Kyuin against the Kyung Zung Banking Corporation and the South Sea Banking Corporation. Dr. Mei, who appeared for the plaintiff, said that the defendant banks had been duly notified of the loss of the orders, and that when he went to claim the money the defendants refused him. Mr. Krisel, appearing for the Ningpo Commercial Bank, said that they had paid Ling the alleged lost orders. Dr. Mei argued that the orders were lost by the defendant and cashed at the Ningpo Commercial Bank by the finders. Judgment was reserved.

There Are 118 Kiddies In This One Block

RECENTLY a Chicago block boasted it had more children than any other in the world—seventy-six. Residents of Orthington Avenue, Chicago, laugh at the claim, for in their block, between Thirty-first and Thirty-second streets, there are 118 kiddies, who have formed their numbers in living numerals to back up their boast. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Quail lead, with eight, the oldest of whom is fifteen.

ALL YANGCHOW MOURNS DEATH OF DR. PIERCE

Many Friends, Chinese And Foreign, Attend Last Rites

(China Press Correspondence)

Yangchow, July 17.—Funeral services for the Rev. L. W. Pierce of the Baptist Mission here, who was drowned when his launch capsized in the Canal near Soochow yesterday afternoon were held at Chinkiang at 3 p.m. today. Many friends of the deceased, both Chinese and foreigners, attended the last rites.

The sad and sudden death of Mr. Pierce has come as a poignant shock to the whole community. He was proceeding homeward from Shanghai in a new motor launch and at Soochow, in attempting to turn to avoid a collision, the launch capsized, resulting in Mr. Pierce's death by drowning.

In the death of Mr. Pierce, Yangchow loses its veteran missionary, he having resided here for nearly thirty-one years. His life has been marked not only by incessant activity but by a singular capacity to make and hold friends. Far and wide among the Chinese his name was known and was a synonym for kindliness and sympathy. Among foreigners there was no one more beloved and trusted for his wise and always kindly judgment. An irreparable loss has befallen the community.

Mr. Pierce was the second member of the Baptist mission here to lose his life by drowning. Some three and a half years ago, Dr. Anderson was drowned in crossing the Yangtsze at Chinkiang.

Polish Refugees Now Housed In French Barracks

While food and quarters have been provided, the party of 70 Polish refugees who arrived here from Vladivostok Saturday augmented by 70 more who came in Monday, are still in dire need of clothing, and Shanghai charitable organisations are endeavoring to care for them in this particular.

The 140 are now quartered in the French Barracks near Koukasa Gardens where they are being cared for by the French authorities. In the meantime, the French Consul-General has communicated with the Polish Minister at Tokio to ascertain if accommodations can be secured for them on a steamer bound for Europe. There are 60 women, 40 children and 40 men in the group.

Donations of clothing for them may be sent to the residence of Mr. L. Encarnacao, 22 North Szechuen Road, or direct to the French Barracks on Route Voyron.

CHANG'S HUMOR

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 18.—Having seized the salt revenues and failed to restore the northern section rolling stock of the Peking-Mukden railway, General Chang Tso-lin, in a circular telegram to the provinces, declares obedience to the legal President and expresses hopes for reunification. This is considered locally as fresh illustration of Mukden humor.

Radical Moral Reforms Made By Honan Tuchun

Radical improvements for the moral welfare of the people of Honan are being made by Tuchun Feng Yu-hsiang, the Christian general and Wu Pei-fu's running mate in the recent internecine war, according to Mr. Hsu Chu-chen, counsellor to General Wu Pei-fu who has just returned to Shanghai after an extended trip in North and Central China.

In an interview given to a represenative of THE CHINA PRESS, Mr. Hsu enumerated a few interesting incidents which are both dramatic and sensational and which demonstrate the value of some unique methods through which vice may be eliminated in big cities.

The severity of General Feng's punishment for prostitution and opium smoking have long driven out offenders and would-be offenders from Kaifeng, but several minor offenses have been made punishable by law and today Kaifeng is truly a religious and moral city.

Cigarette smoking is unlawful. Any offender caught smoking is at once accosted by the police and made to stand in a circle in the middle of the street and not allowed to leave the spot until he has consumed the tobacco.

To eliminate luxury, the wearing of silks is no longer permissable. Satin shoe-wearers are assessed $2 apiece while the assessment increases in proportion with the quality of other wearing apparel, according to Mr Hsu.

The Mah Jongg players are out of luck when they are caught. With the entire gambling paraphinalia on the table, each of the four offenders must carry one of the legs of the table and march round the city in parade form. Onlookers must follow the parade with the chairs on which they have been sitting to watch the game, the interviewer said.

No soldiers are allowed to ride in rickshas, which are considered as vehicles for civilians. Soldiers can only ride on horseback or bicycles when sent out on a mission. Without official errands, soldiers are not allowed to loaf in the streets. Their entire time is devoted to drilling.

Reformers, some foreigners and missionaries are loud in their praise for the new Tuchun, Mr. Hsu asserted. All the new recruits are baptised and made to sing hymns and pray for the nation and the army. There was a recent drought in Kaifeng. An organised prayer was instituted by General Feng and to the surprise of the army and civilians, two inches of rain fell almost immediately after the praying.

In the work of rehabilitating Honan, General Feng is assisted by General Tang Tien-hsi, formerly Military Commissioner of Chefoo and Military Attache to the Presidential Office. General has had a splendid record as a soldier and is hailed as the first citizen of Honan.

Mr. Hsu, who is leaving for Loyang in a week, confirmed the report that Wu Pei-fu and Feng Yu-hsiang are in absolute harmony in the political struggle.

COTTON GOODS MANUFACTURER DICTATES TARIFF

Ex-Senator Lippit's Proposal Adopted Word For Word

(China Press Service)

Washington, July 17.—Senator Lenroot has charged Senator Smoot with admiting the section of the tariff bill imposing an additional duty of 12 percent advalorem on fancy cotton goods, word for word as proposed by ex-Senator Lipitt, a cotton goods manufacturer of Providence, R. I.

The Senate approved the imposition of an additional 12 percent tariff on fancy cotton clothing dspite Lenroot's amendment to reduce that figure.

Plan To Greet Judge Lobingier

Plans for a community greeting to Judge Charles S. Lobingier of the United States Court for China on his arrival here on July 25 on the Admiral Line Steamer President Grant are being made by the committee of the American Chamber of Commerce, the American Association of China, and the American University Club. Members of the committees of all three organisations will go to the wharf to greet the judge when he debarks.

DENBY COMING ON SATURDAY, MEMBERS OF PARTY ARRIVE

AFFAIRS PLANNED

American Bodies Giving Dinner At Carlton Monday Night.

The distinguished party of American naval men including a large number of members of the 1881 graduating class of Annapolis Naval Academy who accompanied Secretary of the Navy Edwin C. Denby across the Pacific arrived here yesterday on the U. S. Transport Henderson on which the long voyage to the Far East was taken. Mr. Denby who left the party in Japan to proceed to Peking overland on invitation of the Chinese Government is to arrive in Shanghai on Saturday night.

On the arrival of the Transport Henderson at Yokohama Mr. Denby and his party were greeted by Admiral Joseph Strauss, Commander of the American Asiatic Fleet. The Annapolis 1881 classmen held a reunion at Tokio in the first week in July and after the party had been lavishly entertained by the Japanese Government Mr. Denby with Mrs. Denby and their two children, Edwin, age 10, and Marion, age 6, accompanied by Admiral and Mrs. Strauss and by Lieut. Joseph A. Carey, special assistant to Mr. Denby, crossed from Nagasaki to Chinwangtao and proceeded thence by special train to Peking. The rest of the party which arrived here yesterday came on directly to Shanghai on the Henderson.

OVERHAULING SHIP

Anticipating the possibility that the Henderson may encounter a typhoon when the party resumes its tour to Manila the vessel is being given a general overhauling here and its boilers are to be cleaned. The length of the party's stay in Shanghai will be determined by Mr. Denby after his arrival here on Saturday, but it is thought unlikely that the Henderson will sail before the middle of next week.

Following the arrival of the transport Captain McArthur, Commander of the vessel, paid an official call upon Mr. E. S. Cunningham, American Consul-General, who is to return the call and visit the Henderson this morning.

While only informal arrangements have been made to entertain the party of visitors through the period until Mr. Denby arrives, a number of affairs in his honor are being arranged by foreign and Chinese bodies for the early part of next week.

BALL FOR SAILORS

Tonight the Navy Y.M.C.A. is staging a ball at The Town Hall for the American sailors and marines aboard the Henderson and after Mr. Denby's arrival the Navy 'Y' is to give a reception for him when it is intended that every American sailor in port who can be given leave will be present.

One of the important affairs of Mr. Denby's visit to Shanghai will be the dinner in his honor on Monday night at The Carlton when he will be the guest of the American Chamber of Commerce and The American Association.

Today automobiles are to be provided for members of the visiting party and they will be taken on sightseeing tours around the city. The cars are to go to the Customs Jetty at 2 o'clock and the start will be made from the jetty. Among places to be visited will be the Commercial Press plant, the plant of the China General Edison company and St. John's University.

TRIP TO SOOCHOW

Arrangements are going forward to take the entire party of visitors on a trip to Soochow on Saturday. This excursion will be conducted by Mr. D. J. Lewis, Secretary of the American Chamber of Commerce.

Invitations are being issued by Consul-General E. S. Cunningham on behalf of the Board of Governors of the Columbia Country Club to the American community to attend a reception for Mr. and Mrs. Denby that will be held at the Country Club, 56 Route Doumer on Monday afternoon, July 24 from 5 o'clock until 7 o'clock. On Monday evening the Carlton dinner will be held.

The flagship of the Asiatic fleet, the U. S. S. Huron which took Mr. Denby and his party from Nagasaki to Chinwangtao is due to arrive in port today and it will probably escort the Henderson south when the transport leaves.

THOSE IN PARTY

Included in the big party are some of the most prominent figures in American naval affairs. The list of those who arrived yesterday is as follows:

Maj.-General George Barnett of Fort Royal, Virginia, who is accompanied by Mrs. Barnett and her daughter, Miss Anne Gordon.

Brig.-General H. C. Haines of Washington who is accompanied by Mrs. Haines and their two daughters, Miss Helen Haines and Miss Barbara Haines.

Senator O. E. Weller, who is junior senator from Maryland and is president of the Annapolis class of 1881.

Commander Lloyd Bankson of Philadelphia, who is accompanied by his niece, Miss Agnes Means.

Col. K. H. White and Mrs. White of Washington.

Capt. Joseph H. Linnard of Philadelphia.

Capt. Samuel Bryan of Annapolis.

Commander W. W. White of Washington, who is accompanied by his daughter Mrs. Louise W. Irwin of Long Beach, California.

Commander Martin A. Anderson of Washington.

Commander Albert Moritz of Brooklyn who is accompanied by Mrs. Moritz, their daughter, Miss Fanny and their son, Melville Moritz.

Commander Clarence Matthews of New York.

Maj. Zebulon B. Vance of Black Mountain, North Carolina and Mrs. Vance.

Mrs. R. A. Warner and daughter.

Mrs. G. W. Simpson and two children.

Mrs. J. Carey and two daughters.

Mr. E. D. Clarkson.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Haines and two daughters, the Misses Eleanor and Ruth of Boston, Mass.

Mr. James E. Byrne of Boston.

Mr. Isaac B. Parsons of Hayward, Calif. and Mrs. Parsons.

Mr. F. W. Smies of Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. M. R. Moses, Mrs. F. F. Rodgers.

THE VOYAGE

Leaving Hampton Roads, Virginia, on May 20, the Henderson with the Denby party aboard came through the Panama Canal and stopped at several points on the American continent and at Hawaii before the party disembarked at Yokohama. Perfect weather accompanied the transport for practically the entire voyage, except that the last few days before reaching Japan were quite windy.

Eight days after clearing, the members of the Annapolis Class of 1881 assembled on deck to drop a great wreath of flowers into the waters of the Atlantic Ocean not far from Colon, for it was near that spot that one of their class-mates, Mr. F. N. Hunicke, had gone down to death in 1910. The Henderson turned and circled round the wreath of flowers as it floated on the waters, and then continued her voyage to Japan. Mr. Hunicke, a native of St. Louis, but a resident of New York at the time of his death, was sleeping on the deck of a vessel one hot night when in some way he fell overboard and was drowned. A marble shaft to his memory is erected in the National Cemetery at Arlington, Virginia, and his old classmates honored his memory on their voyage here.

STOP AT SAN DIEGO

A short stop was made at Panama, and another at San Diego, where welcome receptions and other entertainments were given. When only a little distance out into the Pacific after having passed through the Panama Canal, the passengers on the Henderson observed Decoration Day May 30. A ship of flowers was launched on the Pacific as a tribute to the Americans who had died at sea while serving their nation under arms. The flowers boat was launched at high noon as 21 minute-guns were fired after which the Secretary of the Navy went to the prow of the boat, where he gave an address to the sailors.

In the afternoon a "field day" was held, including rope climbing, potato races, a pie eating contest and other such sports.

Two days were spent at Honolulu. The passengers on the Henderson praised the reception there highly. The beauty of Hawaii appealed to them greatly, but even more so did the spontaneous cordiality of their reception. From Honolulu the Henderson went on to Yokohama, and Nagasaki, thence coming here.

Besides the members of the Annapolis class and their families the Henderson is carrying a special guard of 75 Marines for the Secretary of the Navy. The crew is, of course, made up of American sailors, and there are several hundred sailors on board who will replace others now in the Philippines.

The life on the boat coming out was very much the same as that on a trans Pacific liner, except that all of the "first cabin" passengers know one another and had many bonds of friendship. Motion pictures and dancing were held each night.

Phonographs Play "Coming Through The Rye"

CUSTOMS inspectors searching a barge in New York harbor came across several cases marked "talking machines." In moving one of these cases a musical "tinkle, tinkle" came from the box, and it was opened, disclosing no talking machines, but plenty of real rye whiskey. There is a lot of "talk" in that much booze.

Office Seekers And Jap Press Rapping C. T. Wang, Says Shantung Official

Japanese controlled press and dissatisfied office-seekers are conducting a campaign against Dr. C. T. Wang, director of Shantung Rehabilitation, alleging employment of incompetent officials and alienating the Shantung gentry from the Rehabilitation Bureau.

This is the keynote of an interview given to a representative of THE CHINA PRESS yesterday by one of the high officials of the Bureau of Rehabilitation who was attached to the Chinese Delegations to both the Versailles and Washington Conferences.

"The importance of the retrocession of Shantung cannot be over estimated," said the official. "As a patriot and as an organiser, Dr. Wang leaves very little to be desired. We have evidence of his work and integrity at the Paris Peace Conference.

"The only shortcoming in Dr. Wang is that he has not been an official long and has too keen a sense of responsibility. He lacks tactics in handling Chinese officials. Since his appointment, he has ignored all the mandarins of Shantung. All requests for favors and appointments have been rejected, hence a great deal of animosity has been created among these mandarins and office seekers. One of the journalists has asked for an appointment drawing $300 a month. Upon being rejected, he has been bitter in his attack against the bureau and the individuals.

"Should Dr. Wang be less strict in his disbursement of public funds and had he consented to the demand, the attack would not have taken place at all.

"One of the main causes of complaint against Dr. C. T. Wang is his appointment of Mr. Yuan Wenchin as Counsellor, who been considered by a certain section of the press as incompetent. But the public does not know that Yuan was appointed by Tuchun Tien Chung-yu of Shantung to this position long before Dr. Wang was appointed director himself. In order to work in harmony with his colleagues, Dr. Wang has been compelled to retain the services of Yuan.

"Another allegation made against Dr. Wang is that he has been buying the material for the investigation section from Japanese sources. Let me say that the financial resources of the bureau is limited and even if we the bureau had the money, Dr. Wang would be the last man on earth to commit such folly. A certain German has recently offered to sell 20 boxes of records of Shantung, which he asked for $200,000. The Shantung Rehabilitation Bureau's refusal to purchase the record is concrete proof that it cannot spend any large sum of money on records.

"Several teams have been organised for the purpose of investigation. The reports of team A is generally confirmed by Team B, while the results secured by team B are gone over by Team C. The final results of investigation therefore are secured through comparison.

"The Shantung natives accuse Dr. Wang of having ignored able men among their number. But the handling of the Shantung controversy is an international affair and Dr. Wang felt justified to disallow provincialism to creep into the readjustment. The attacks have all been instituted by dissatisfied Shantung natives, who have only their own interest at heart.

"Another allegation is that Dr. Wang has suddenly become pro-Japanese. In a position such as Dr. Wang is holding, there has to be certain amount of international intercourse and the Japanese, being the party through which retrocession is to take place, have to be humored in order that the work may be smoothly carried out.

"At the Versailles Conference, Dr. Wang was the first to advocate the rejection of the Germany Treaty of Peace, naturally there is a great deal of animosity among the Japanese. Should Wang start out with an anti-Japanese policy, how is he expected to negotiate with the Japanese?

"Happily, Dr. Wang is determined to serve his nation as his conscience dictates to him and is not the least perturbed by the ill-reports of his opponents."

WALLACE IS HELD BY MIXED COURT IN FRAUD CASE

Scant Recognition Given To Claim Of Accused That He Is American

Walter G. Wallace, involved with George Chalmers and Arthur Spence, lately doing business in offices at 8 Kiangse Road, in what the police allege to be a far-reaching insurance fraud appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday to answer another charge made against him in Tientsin of having obtained $538 worth of goods by false pretenses. As the outcome of the hearing that was held, which was preliminary in nature, American Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Yui held that a prima facie case had been made out and ordered the defendant held for trial at Tientsin.

In the event that the charge of conspiracy in connection with the insurance matter is pressed here, it is probable that Wallace will be dealt with here on that charge and the hearing at Tientsin will be deferred indefinitely.

Following his arrest Wallace put forward the claim that he is an American citizen, though recognition has been denied to him by the American consulate. On the subject of this claim the Mixed Court ruled yesterday that until Wallace can present a letter from the American Consulate granting him recognition as a citizen of the United States the Mixed Court will take jurisdiction in connection with charges against him.

SEEKS BAIL REDUCTION

Dr. Fischer asked for a reduction of the bail, mentioning that George Chalmers and Arthur Spence in the British Court had provided sureties for $1,500. The two latter are alleged to be implicated with Wallace in one insurance fraud.

Detective Sergenant R. W. Yorke said other charges would be framed against Wallace. In Hankow the Police had just learned an agent was appointed and he provided a cash security of $1,000, the receipt for which was signed by Wallace. As soon as the agent realised that the insurance companies he represented were bogus he was certain to come to Shanghai and bring a charge against the defendant. The charge that the local police was bringing against Wallace was one of conspiracy, for it is alleged that early in May the defendant had opened offices at 8 Kiangse Road, as agents for two American insurance companies, and had issued advertisements in the Chinese press.

SIGNED POLICIES

Some 300 Chinese had taken out policies and the Police would produce evidence to show that these companies were not in existence. These companies had signs outside the office stating that they were connected with companies in Baltimore and New Jersey. The only money paid out was by the compradore who was now poorer by $6,000. The defendant had signed the policies that were issued and also all the compradore orders.

Dr. Fischer asked for a dismissal of the charge of false pretences against the defendant, for there was no evidence before the Court that the defendant had obtained the goods by means of false pretences.

The complainant had admitted that he had sold the goods on credit, and it was a prima facie business transaction, the attorney continued. There was evidence before the Court that the defendant was born in America and his parents were in America. He had acted in good faith, and the question whether he was of American citizenship was still to be decided. Leaving the question of citizenship aside, the complainant was stopped from making the present charge, as the same charge could not be made twice. It was a well-established principle of law.

CLAIM DENIED

The complainant had made a charge against Wallace and Mrs. Wallace in Tientsin, and had admitted to the Court that this charge at Tientsin was withdrawn after he had come to an amicable settlement with Wallace and his wife. According to the complainant, several weeks after, in pursuance of an agreement, a certain amount of money was paid to him and accepted by him. Dr. Fischer submitted that it was not impossible that the complainant should now come to a criminal court, on which he relied to get his civil claim.

The complainant had told the Court that he would not accept $50 per month, and by means of a criminal charge expected to get his money right away, and had taken advantage of the fact that the defendant was in difficulties.

Private Soldiers' Chief Under Arrest

MARVIN Gates Sperry, president of the Private Soldiers' and Sailors' Legion, with headquarters in Washington, was arrested there on charges of being a fugitive from justice. The Soldiers' Legion had been affiliated with other organisations, but broke with them. When requests were made for payments of debts incurred in Baltimore by the Legion organisation it was alleged there were no funds in the treasury.

Reservations Going For Dinner To Denby

To all those who intend to be present at the dinner to be given on Monday night at The Carlton in honor of Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby by the American Chamber of Commerce and the American Association, notice is given that reservations must be applied for without delay. These are being received by Secretary D. J. Lewis of the American Chamber of Commerce. It is estimated that 500 will attend the dinner.

GOOD CROPS AT TSINKIANGPU, BUT PRICES ARE HIGH

Bakers Strike Because Of Activities Of Speculators

(China Press Correspondence)

Tsingkiangpu, Ku., July 14.—The latest returns from the threshing floors give a fair yield of wheat and barley, many farmers say a 70% crop. Grain is in the market and has brought down the price of rice, yet to no marked degree. The high prices of the past year have caused the speculator to take no chances, and his name is legion. Wheat is being rapidly bought up by rich people, mills, and even general shops with a little extra capital and is being hoarded. Much is being shipped to the coast.

So sharply has the price of wheat risen that the local bakeries found their margin of profit vanishing, so they declared a strike, refused to sell at all. Two of the small bakers disregarded the guild's decision and sold bread as usual. The other bakers set the beggars on them and all their baking was commandeered in a rough and ready but thoroughly efficient way before noon. A day or two later the magistrate issued a proclamation prohibiting the export of wheat or flour. This is efficient possibly for a day or two.

Business is better since the harvest but large orders and distribution are made impossible by the condition of the country. The brigands are worse than last year and found everywhere. They specialise in stolen people rather than in stolen goods. They practically rob at will. A market town six miles from this city was robbed a few days ago and three of the leading men carried off for ransom. Three days ago seven persons were carried off from a large village five miles northwest of this city. Two boys were taken from a house in this city by a gang that broke in during the night and were carried off. They are not yet freed. The whole north country is in turmoil. The people in many places sleep in the fields or in straw ricks rather than in their houses. The soldiers attack the robbers here, the latter scatter and gather there and get to work. A military officer told me that all the robbers lack now are machine guns and artillery, otherwise they are well armed. Order and the protection of life and property are the great needs of this whole end of the province and the people will obey whoever gives them these things.

The water in the Grand Canal is still low. The rains though seasonable have not been heavy. The Conservancy Board has done some good work in building up the banks and dredging. There are signs of making a broad road for motor cars along the top of the East Bank towards Yangchow. This would be a great public benefaction.

The prospects for the autumn crops are fine, the fields present a splendid sight with maize, beans peanuts and sweet potatoes flourishing.

Dr. Roller Whips Two Thugs

DR. B. F. Roller, one-time wrestling champion, caught two youths who had beaten up a drug clerk in a New York store. One of the men tried to wrestle with the doctor, who threw him ten feet and took all the fight out of him. The two men and the clerk were cut, and the doctor treated all their wounds and then arrested the thugs.

You'll Find Them Most Comfortable

PARIS GARTERS

are generally preferred by discriminating men everywhere. They are tailored to fit the leg and are made with due regard to the muscles, nerves and blood vessels they are worn over, and are, therefore, always comfortable. Yet they hold up the hose securely and dependably, giving that desirable wrinkleless ankle that particular men insist upon.

There are four other equally good reasons why you should be sure that it is Paris Garters you get from your haberdasher. If you are careless and accept a substitute, you cannot expect Paris comfort or Paris efficiency. Insist on getting the genuine.

Mistaken Economy

Nowhere in building is the high cost of cheap equipment so evident as in the sanitary installation. Constant annoyance, damage through leakage to walls and ceilings, and expensive repair bills come in the train of trying to save money on the initial cost of plumbing fixtures.

LOTTERY LAWS OF U. S. INVOKED IN CASE HERE

Harbin Publisher In Toils, Is Held For Trial In U. S. Court For China

What is perhaps the first effort to apply the stringent American federal laws against lotteries to Americans living in China is being put forth in the case of B. F. Brown, until recently publisher of The Far Eastern Times at Harbin. Following his arrest at Harbin Brown, who was brought to Shanghai recently, was given a preliminary hearing before U. S. Commissioner N. E. Lurton and after being held for trial in the United States Court for China he was released on bail of $500.

Brown was arrested by Vice Consul Dutko, who is Deputy United States Marshal for the Consular Court at Harbin.

The crime with which the publisher is charged is the paying of ten yen to the holder of the lucky coupon, a numbered ticket having been given away with every copy of the paper sold on the street, and the publication of the advertisement of an organisation that is classed as a lottery.

The brief career of the Far Eastern Times has been a stormy one, strewn with troubles.

Suit was brought against it for libel by General Beckett, British member of the Inter-Allied Technical Board when the paper was scarcely a month old.

The company that has the tramway franchise in Harbin threatened suit for fifty thousand dollars, according to rumors that were circulated, and the editor of one of the Russian dailies appealed to the American Consul to call off the attacks of the Russian editor of the Times.

Not only did trouble follow the circulation-boosting scheme that ran afoul of the law but collections having been poor, the printers, reporters, and the workers on the new location occupied by the paper, took charge of the building on Saturday evening, July 1, and refused to let the publisher leave unless he paid their wages.

It required the presence of the Consul to get him free so that arrangements could be made for him to come to Shanghai.

On July 10 a committee representing the creditors called on the American Consul, asking that the press, type, office furniture and other effects be sold, and the proceeds be applied toward the paying of the indebtedness of the publisher.

Mr. Brown has many friends in Harbin who are positive that only ignorance of the law has got him into his present predicament, says the Harbin Correspondent of the North China Star.

Quebec Reported To Be Flourishing

Montreal.—A flourishing financial condition in the Province of Quebec was announced by the Hon. L. A. Taschereau, provincial Premier, in a public address in Montreal. "I do not want to betray the secrets of the provincial Treasurer," said Mr. Taschereau, "but if this year our revenue comes to $20,000,000, I will not be surprised. I do not want to take away from the Treasurer the pleasure of announcing his surplus, but I will say that at the close of this present fiscal year the Province will have a surplus equal to that of all the other provinces of the confederation for the past five years. For over a year no taxes have been put on the people, but, on the contrary, we have diminished the stumpage duties 50 percent so as to give the timber limit holders a chance to develop their limits. We have reduced the royalties on mine owners to permit them to develop their mines. We have totally abolished the royalty on fish, but despite this we will report a surplus that will be beyond expectations to show that the Province of Quevec is still leading."

The Prime Minister referred to the increased grants for education, the $3,000,000 to the universities, the $10,000 per year to each classical college and the $40,000 pro rata grant for Protestant schools, and to the students whom the Province is maintaining in France. There are now 15 of them, and he hoped that next year there would be 25 or even 30. Mr. Taschereau said that it was hoped before long to have many agricultural schools in the Province such as the one now being established at Rimouski. There had already been $35,000,000 spent on roads, and the amount would soon be $40,000,000.

Scotty, Pitcher, Is Proud Dad Of A New Baby Girl, So Proud That He's Dippy

BY WESTA

Great news for the baseball fraternity today, including fans, fanoritas, customers, managers, captains, box score compilers, war correspondents, bat boys, ground keepers, rookies and cooties, as follows:

There's a new baby girl at John Scott's house.

Absolutely, a brand new baby girl!

The newcomer, a charming and intelligent lassie, arrived yesterday, too late for any mention of the great event in the evening papers. so this is an exclusive announcement.

Scotty, so excited that he was choking and sputtering like a flivver missing on three cylinders, called up last evening and wanted to know where the paper circulated.

"All over the world," we assured him.

"Are you sure?" he asked.

"Positive! But why do you ask?"

"Because I have some great news for you! Undoubtedly the greatest news you ever heard! And I want to make sure that the whole world hears about it!"

"All right, Scotty," we said, "you spill it to us and we'll spill it to the breathlessly waiting world.

THE NEW BABY

"Well," he began, hesitatingly, as though the import of it were crushing him, "well, there's a new baby girl at my house!"

"You don't say so!"

"Yes sir! Absolutely!

So we went right out to Scotty's house, at 35 Darroch Road, to interview the young lady.

She was a bit flustered, naturally. It would have been difficult for a person of far greater maturity to retain her poise and aplomb in the atmosphere of excitement created by the altogether wild eyed and incoherent male parent.

"Well," we asked, finally, addressing the newcomer, "what do you think?"

"To tell you the truth," she laughed, "I have hardly had time to think, as yet. I have been so worried lest that strange person over there (indicating Scotty) hurt himself in all his wild running about the place, upsetting things and getting in everybody's way, that I haven't had a chance to form intelligent impressions, although, off hand, I will say it's nice to be here."

"You like Shanghai, then."

"Oh immensely! I've already met some very nice people, and I'm sure there are not many as queer as he is." (again indicating Scotty).

"How do you like your amah?"

SHE'S WISE TO AMAHS

At this the young lady smiled knowingly. "Amah and I get along famously," she said. "You see, you don't have to be in Shanghai long to learn that an amah, properly handled and trained, can be wound around one's fingers. It is simply a matter of asserting one's self from the beginning."

"Do you approve of your father?"

"My what?"

"Your father—Scotty, here."

"Good heavens! Is that man my father?"

At this point in the interview Mrs. Scott saved the situation. "Of course, dear," she said. "I forgot to introduce him. I'm sure you will like him when you come to know him."

But the young lady was skeptical. "Well, mother," she said, after a critical inspection of the grinning John, "if he's my father of course I shall have to make the most of him. But it looks like a hard case."

The conversation then turned to mosquitos, hot weather, house boys, amahs and the other things ordinarily discussed in Shanghai, in all of which matters Miss Scott revealed a quick and intelligent mental grasp and a ready wit.

"Ain't she a peach?" chortled John, as we were leaving.

"A peach! a peach! a peach!" we heard him repeating, over and over again, as we rode away in a ricsha.

He's not a bit off his base, at that. She is, indeed, a peach.

Manager Holby Gollop said last night that the game with the All Fleet team this afternoon would be started as late as possible, to avoid the heat. The manager particularly requests all the regulars to be at the grounds, as he fears the sailors, if they play anything like they did the last time out, will cop the game unless Shanghai has the best team possible in the field.

* * *

With the return of the Huron to this port Shanghai fans are assured of good week end games for Saturday and Sunday. The Huron gang, after their sea trip, in which they were sleeping under blankets while the rest of us were sweltering here in Shanghai, are out to be in first class fettle for a couple of rousing good contests. Scymanski and Co. undoubtably cooked up numerous schemes while they were away for taking Hoppy's crew into camp, and the forthcoming battles ought to be good ones. The manager hopes to have Secretary of the Navy Denby as a guest at the game Sunday.

Baseball Today!

The Shanghai and All Fleet teams will hook up again this afternoon at 5 o'clock, and if the contest is anything like the one Sunday it will be worth going a long way to see. In their last time out the sailors played like big leaguers, and it was only by grace of a little good joss that the locals won out in the last half of the ninth. The game will start late, to give all the fans a chance to get out. Better be there.

COLD CHISSEL,
Chicago.

Yes, the Roughtown ace was there in a pack of deuces.

He figured that Greb would do pretty good provided that some Roughtown kid didn't knock him over with a Boy Scout drumstick.

But he admits that Greb is the best 160-pounder who ever blazed a trail over the trackless resin.

Tunney claims that Greb's skull really gives him three fists.

Gene says that Harry used his hat knob like a potato masher. But Gink think Greb had some fancy perfume on his hair that he wanted to share with Tunney's nose.

Tunney is in no position to say anything about the fight any more than an oyster in a stew can criticise the cooking.

The air was so full of gloves that Tunney thought Spalding's factory had exploded.

But Gink is a golfer now and doesn't want to say anything about the brutal game of dividing gate receipts.

He claims that Greb went in there swinging both arms as if he was afraid that the taxes weren't going to last until the next war.

But even though Gink is a golfer now and is no longer the famous rough and tumble fighter he still has his old ability.

He is still the best rough and tumple champion.

When the other guy is rough, Gink tumbles.

'Babe' Ruth Hits Fifteenth Homer

New York, July 17.—George H. Ruth, the Bambino Babe, made his fifteenth home run of the season today in the game against the Chicago White Sox at the Polo Grounds. Mr. Ruth poked the apple over the right field fence.

"Babe" is twenty home runs behind the record he hung up a year ago. On the fifteenth of last July he made his 35th of the 54 he aggregated all season.

Clay Pigeon Club

Eric Moller, Willie Gande, Nazer, Hexamer and Ted Doremus staged a great battle at the Clay Pigeon Club Sunday afternoon for a cup presented by two anonymous donors. When the smoke cleared Moller led Gande by a single point and a glance at the summary will show how the others battled.

Here it is:

Name	Score	H'cap	Total
Moller	43	8	51
Gande	44	6	50
Nazer	42	8	50
Hexamer	47	2	49
Doremns	46	3	49
Read	44	3	47
Tuxford	32	12	44
Pirie	33	10	43
Beatty	26	11	37

Two sweep competitions followed, one at 30 and the other at 20 birds. Tuxford won the first with a good score of 26×7=33. In the second Gande proved winner with 19×2=21.

LEONARD SHOWS OLD FORM IN 'KANSAS' BATTLE

Michigan City, Ind., July 4.—Benny Leonard knocked out Rocky Kansas of Buffalo in the eighth round of a ten round bout here today. Kansas was bleeding freely and reeling helplessly when his seconds threw up the sponge. The battle left no doubt in the minds of the spectators that Leonard is just as rugged and powerful as ever before.

Leonard took every round. Kansas stood up to him like a man struggling gamely but unsuccessfully to trade blows with him. Kansas failed to land solid blows but several times barely missed getting by the champion's defense.

Leonard increased his speed and showed greater superiority with each round, shooting out his famous right cross and mingling it with left hooks. Leonard smashed Kansas at will, administering the severest beating of the challenger's career.

Kansas was bleeding at the mouth and ears. Before the last round Kansas moaned: "He whipped me, he whipped me. Oh, how he can hit."

Leonard failed to floor the challenger but apparently an actual knockout was imminent when Kansas' second threw up the sponge.

International Law Cited By Russians To Justify Their Stand At Genoa

The reply presented by the Russian delegation at Genoa to the Allied Memorandum of May 2, on financial Clauses, follows:

Passing to the other Clauses of the Memorandum, the Russian delegation is compelled to observe that all of the claims set forth therein result from changes produced by the Russian Revolution.

It is not for the Russian Delegation to justify this great act of the Russian people before an Assembly of Powers, many of whom count more than one revolution in their own history; but the Russian Delegation feels obliged to recall that principle of law according to which revolutions, which are a violent rupture with the past, carry with them new juridical relations in the foreign and domestic affairs of States.

Governments and systems that spring from a revolution are not bound to respect the obligations of the fallen Governments. The French Convention, of which France declares herself the legitimate successor, proclaimed on December 22, 1792, that "the sovereignty of peoples is not bound by the treaties of tyrants." In accordance with this declaration, revolutionary France not only tore up the political treaties of the former regime with foreign countries, but also repudiated her national debt. She consented to pay only one-third of that debt, and that from motives of political expedience. This was the "tiers consolide," the interest on which did not begin to be paid regularly until the commencement of the nineteenth century.

DOCTRINE CITED

This practice, elevated to the rank of a doctrine by eminent legal authorities, has been followed almost universally by Governments born of a revolution or a war of liberation.

The United States repudiated the treaties of its predecessors England and Spain.

On the other hand, the Governments of the victorious States did not hesitate during the war, and especially upon the conclusion of the Treaties of Peace, to seize the property of the nationals of the vanquished States situated upon their territory, and even upon foreign territory. In conformity with these precedents, Russia cannot be obliged to assume any responsibility whatever toward the foreign Powers and their nationals, for the cancellation of the public debts, and for the nationalisation of private property.

Another question of law; is the Russian Government responsible for damages caused to the property, rights, and interests of foreign nationals by reason of the civil war, apart from those which were caused to them by the acts of the Government itself—that is, the cancellation of debts and the nationalisation of property? Here again the juridical doctrine is entirely in favor of the Russian Government.

Revolution, being like all great popular movements akin to force majeure, does not confer any title to indemnity upon those who have suffered from it. When foreign nationals, supported by their Governments, demanded from the Tsarist Government a reimbursement of the losses caused to them by the revolutionary events of 1905 and 1906, the Government rejected their demands, basing its refusal upon the fact that, not having accorded damages to its own subjects for similar losses, it could not place foreigners in a privileged position.

NOT OBLIGED TO PAY

Thus, from the point of view of law, Russia is in no wise obliged to pay the debts of the past, to restore properties, or to compensate their former owners, nor is she obliged to pay indemnities for other damages suffered by foreign nations, whether as a result of legislation adopted by Russia in the exercise of her sovereignty, or as a result of the revolutionary events. Nevertheless, in a spirit of conciliation and in order to arrive at an understanding with all the Powers, Russia has accepted, under the reserve of reciprocity, the principle contained in the third Cannes Resolution. This reciprocity, that is, the obligation resting on every Government to pay compensation for damages caused by its acts or its negligence has been confirmed in the official interpretations of the third Cannes Resolution, to which reference has already been made in the first Russian Memorandum.

With the exception of the war debts which, having a specific origin, were extinguished by the very fact that Russia, having withdrawn from the war without participating in the division of its advantages, could not assume its costs, the Russian Delegation has declared itself ready to accept liability for the payment of public debts, provided that the damages caused to Russia by the Allied intervention and the blockade be recognised.

In law, the Russian counter claims are infinitely more justified than the claims of the foreign Powers and their nationals. Practice and theory agree in imposing the responsibility for damages caused by intervention and blockade upon the Governments which instituted them. Not to cite other cases, we shall confine ourselves to recalling the decision of the Court of Arbitration of Geneva, September 14, 1872, condemning Great Britain to pay to the United States 15,000,000 dollars for the damages caused to that country by the privateer Alabama, which in the civil war between the Northern and Southern States gave help to the latter.

The intervention and the blockade of the Allies and neutrals against Russia constituted official acts of war on their part. The documents published in Annex 2 of the first Russian Memorandum prove with evidence that the chiefs of the counter-revolutionary armies were such only in appearance, and that their real commanders were the foreign generals sent especially for that purpose by certain Powers. These Powers not only took a direct part in the civil war, but they were the authors of it.

WILLING TO CONCEDE

Nevertheless, in its desire to reach a practical agreement, the Russian Delegation, as a result of the discussions which took place at the Villa De Albertis adopted a policy of most far-reaching concessions, and declared itself prepared to renounce conditionalle its counter-claims, and to accept the engagements of the former Governments in exchange for a number of concessions on the part of the Powers, the most important being real credits to be placed at the disposal of the Russian Government amounting to a sum to be agreed upon in advance. Unfortunately, this engagement of the Powers has not been carried out. The Memorandum says nothing of definite credits which the signatories would be ready to grant to the Russian Government, and the credits which they promise to extend to their nationals for the purpose of trading with Russia are of an optional character.

Moreover, the Memorandum raises again the whole question of the war debts, whose cancellation was one of the conditions of the renunciation by Russia of her counter-claims. The Memorandum likewise discusses the moratorium and the cancellation of the interest of the pre-war debts, leaving the final decision of this question to the competence of a court of arbitration, instead of fixing it in the pact itself, a procedure contrary to the provisions even of the Memorandum of London.

Thus the signatories of the Memorandum, by withdrawing from their obligation, recognise that the opposing party is equally free from his. In this manner the laborious negotiations which resulted in the agreement of the Villa De Albertis have been rendered vain. The Russian Delegation does not wish to seek out the Powers upon whom the responsibility for this may fall, but in any case it does not fall upon Russia.

The negotiations have been rendered still more difficult by the obstinacy of certain States in imposing upon Russia, through Clause 7, obligations inconsistent with her social system and with Article 1 of the Cannes Resolutions.

C. A. Coffin The Man Who Put Electricity Over

BY CHARLES W. WOOD

Who has had most to do with the making of American history during the past half century?

I am not going to answer the question; I am just asking it. How one answers it will depend altogether on how one reads history. When I was a boy I should instantly have thought of Grover Cleveland or James G. Blaine, David B. Hill or Thomas Brackett Reed. Since then the names of Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson have towered, politically, above all others; but just what percentage of history is political?

History is the story of what happens to change human life. Politics is one realm where we attempt to deal with these happenings; but the happenings themselves—where do they happen? Suppose there had been no Republican Party in America since 1872; things would have been vastly different, wouldn't they? But just suppose, instead of that, that there had been no development of the electrical industry! It makes all the difference in the world, you see, how history is read. That is why, when the question was put to me the other day, I instantly thought of Edison and Steinmetz and Henry Ford. I confess I never thought of Charles A. Coffin.

But I am wondering again. The inventor, the scientist, the discoverer of new truths—these men undoubtedly enact a leading role in history. But another type of leader is equally necessary. Knowledge is power, but unless the knowledge is harnessed, nothing much occurs. Somebody has to organise the knowledge. Somebody has to see that the knowledge is applied. Almost everybody, for instance, knows now to prevent war. I know myself, but my discovery isn't doing anybody any good. I can't apply it. I can't get it across. Even if I could convert everybody to my way of thinking, that would not be enough. Converting the world to a peaceful way of acting is the big objective, whether its inhabitants understand the theory of peace or not. That would be organising Knowledge. That would be making history.

Knowledge, in certain lines, has been wonderfully organised in America during the past half century. The people have been converted to new ways of acting. They don't work as they used to. They don't go to work as they used to go. Their houses, their factories, their stores, their office buildings and their public streets have all been changed beyond recognition. Their amusements are unique in the history of the race, and even their forms of worship have been appreciably altered. Not because they voted to make all these changes. Not because they deliberately decided to adopt a new order of society. Mainly, the whole thing happened because certain persons experimenting with electricity made certain discoveries and certain other persons placed these discoveries before the people in such a way that they could hardly refrain from acting upon them. In the foremost rank of such makers of history is Charles A. Coffin.

I am quite sure that Mr. Coffin has never pictured himself in such a role. He was President of the General Electric Company from the day of its organization to his recent retirement, and yet a hundred men in this organisation have received vastly more publicity than he. He is modest in the extreme. "He can afford to be modest," those who know him best remark. He is a slightly built, gray haired, soft voiced gentleman of seventy-eight. He has received innumerable honors and decorations from Governments throughout the world, but he wears them lightly. He says they weren't intended for him; they were intended for the General Electric Company. His picture is entirely unknown to the newspaper reading public. He shrinks from the limelight. He has uniformly declined to be interviewed, and broke his rule this time only on the promise that I would talk about electricity and not about him.

"Just what has electricity done for America during the past forty years?" I began. "And what do you expect it to do during the next forty?"

It was a large order. It was just forty years ago when Mr. Coffin retired from shoe manufacturing in Lynn, Mass., and was induced to become the head of the Thompson - Houston Company, which later combined with the Edison Company to become the General Electric. Electricity in those days was a thing you read about in the papers; how far it might become commercially significant was a problem much discussed. The incandescent electric light had just been discovered. The telegraph and telephone were in use. But backing electricity was much more hazardous from the business standpoint than manufacturing shoes; that, presumably, is why Mr. Coffin went into the game. People were bound to wear out their shoes and buy new ones; all that was necessary was a good factory and an expert sales department. But inducing the people to change their way of doing things—that was a more uncertain and more alluring proposition.

"And there were, to begin with," Mr. Coffin reminisced, "no salesmen of electricity. No one knew how to sell it. A few progressive storekeepers might want electric light, but this was a proposition that had to go big if it were to go at all. We couldn't depend on occasional orders. We couldn't even canvass a town to assure enough subscribers to make the installation of an electric system pay. The main thing was to get electricity to the people; get it where it would be handy; get it where they could make use of it simply by connecting up. We believed in it with a holy faith; if we hadn't we never should have dared the things we did.

"We assembled a motley sales force—book agents, insurance agents, promoters and preachers—and we laid out our plans to establish central power plants in every place we could. Broadcasting is a good word for it. Broadcasting has been a fundamental principle with the General Electric Company ever since. We planted plants everywhere—plants that grew electric currents. We figured that the only way to get electric action was to charge the communities with electricity. Many of the large service plants in existence today are the outgrowth of the central power stations we established then.

"As to what electricity has done to America in these forty years, I don't think any one has ever completed the calculation. Take electricity out of New York, for instance, and one of the items that comes out with it is a very large percentage of her population. This population is dependent upon traction—electric traction. Also upon the telephone. Likewise the electric light. The skyscraper would be impossible without electricity. electric light and the electric elevator, but the very process of steel manufacture, which make modern construction possible, depend at many different stages upon electrical machinery. The modern apartment house is unthinkable without electricity. Modern ocean transportation depends upon it for nevigation. Wherever you see a change in the lives of the people of today it is safe to say that electricity has had much to do with it."

I thought of a few of the most significant changes. Modern war: electricity has played a prominent part, especially in wireless communication. Modern surgery, the development of the X-ray brings us directly to the research laboratories of the General Electric Company. The motion picture: for better or worse, electricity must be held accountable for it. Finally I thought of Prohibition—did electricity have anything to do with that?

Yes, it did. There are as many connections as your mind can stand. For one thing, electricity has brought about centralisation. It may bring about the exact opposite in the near future, but perhaps its most noticeable achievement to date was the development of the industrial center, which, among other things transformed the ancient tavern into the less ancient "liquor traffic," and this traffic clashed with some ideas which were likewise the product of this electric age. It was on the electric current that the bug of "efficiency" was hatched. Theories of personal liberty went down before it; and as for any protest against centralised authority, such protests never had a chance. But listen to Mr. Coffin. I didn't go into the question of Prohibition with him, but we did talk about centralisation.

"The next great social change, as I see it," he said, "is decentralisation. Electricity made the big city. Now it may be expected to unmake it. It was necessary that the city come into existence first. Without cities we have found it impossible heretofore to attain a high degree of human culture. But all the advantages of the city will soon be possible on the farm without having to put up with the unendurable iniquities of city life. Economy, efficiency and culture may soon be broadcasted. When they are we won't have to suffer from subway jams, freight congestion, high prices, impossibly high rents for impossibly cramped living quarters, strikes, unemployment, crime waves and a hundred other plagues of modern times."

"How?"

"Electricity," he answered, "is not only the cleanest and most efficient servent that mankind ever had, it is also the cheapest. It works for less than a coolie's wage and its wages are going down every day while its efficiency is being constantly increased. In addition to this, it does its own travelling, at the rate of 186,000 miles a second, and doesn't have to be transported. Heretofore we have been compelling it to take us to the city, and it has done so beautifully, more quickly and comfortably than we have ever been moved about before. Hereafter we shall simply touch a button and have it take the city out to us.

"Heretofore," he went on, "we have been mining coal and carrying it across the country to be turned into power. Soon we will be sending the power across the country. If we persist in getting the power from coal, we shall at least burn the coal where it is mined, converting it into electricity, and not use up a big fraction of the power, as we do today, in the process of transporting it.

"But there is every indication that we shall go much further than that. In the country where our food grows is the best of all places to eat it. Sending it to the city costs much more than getting it out of the ground, and it has lost a lot of its flavor by the time it has reached the ultimate consumer. Also, there isn't room to live in the city, especially for children. They can't have real homes. They can't stretch and grow, physically and spiritually, as human children should. The city has almost destroyed the home, but it has provided other advantages which the modern man can hardly do without. If only these advantages could be brought to the country village and the farm—well, watch what electricity is going to do next.

"We have learned now that the small industrial unit may be as efficient as the gigantic machine. Mr. Ford believes it will evolve a much higher efficiency, for in the small unit the worker has more of an opportunity to master processes and his creative genius is given fuller play. The next big step in industry, it appears, will be the development of the small, electrically driven factory in the places where the raw materials are found. This will save the transportation of coal and raw materials. It will also do away largely with seasonal employment, for manufacturing and agriculture can arrange winter and summer schedules as conditions demand.

"Cloth will more and more be manufactured where the cotton is grown. The flour mills will leave the cities and go back to the farm. Everybody will be using machinery and learning how to use it, and because the population will follow the machinery the country districts will become inhabited again. Work can then be more equitably divided. It won't be necessary to overwork half the year and vegetate the rest. There will be work enough to go round and there will be hands enough to do it, for the country life of the future will not be the dull, forbidding, solitary thing which the concentration of industry has made it now.

"For one thing, there will be ample communication with the outside world. The radio has burst just upon us: there is no telling where its influence will reach. It may broadcast the news so generally that there will be no necessity for daily papers. Moving pictures may be broadcasted. It may not be necessary to come to New York to see and hear the newest Broadway drama; possibly all that will be necessary will be to adjust the switchboard in your own home in Maine or Washington or New Mexico, and take in a first night performance just as fully as if you had an orchestra seat. This is dreaming, of course, for no one can prophesy with any accuracy concerning such matters. Of one thing only am I certain. That is that we are just in the beginning of the electric age."

"So much for America. How about the rest of the world?"

"Electricity," Mr. Coffin answered, "is international. We recognised that—we couldn't help recognising it—as soon as we got into the game. It is keeping us in touch with the rest of the world as no political representation possibly could. Only when we brought electricity to Japan did Japan come into her own. We are now bringing it to China and China and America will soon be close together.

"But electricity is more than international. It is social. It is democratic. It is the greatest force in the world because it is everybody's servant. We had to recognise that fact as well, and when the General Electric Company set up its research laboratories we couldn't confine the research to commercial purposes. We gathered together the greatest scientists we could find. We equipped them with everything they needed to carry on their experiments. Not that we were better people than others, but because of the peculiar forces with which we were dealing we soon found that we could not limit such an organisation to the aim of making money. It has been their job to discover all that could be discovered about electricity; it has been our job to apply these discoveries to human need, to broadcast the knowledge, to translate the discovered truths into concrete service."

It was absolutely impossible to get Mr. Coffin to say a word about himself. If I wanted the story of electricity, he said, I should begin with such names as Edison and Thomson, Rice, Sprague, Emmett, Whitney, Steinmetz, Coolidge, Langmuir, and a lot of others. These were real names in the electric world: it was upon the labors of such men, he said, that the great General Electric organisation had been built; and men of this calibre are working for it today only because working for it gives them an opportunity to work for humanity.

"Just one more question," I asked. What is electricity?"

"I can't tell you," he answered, "I was asked to deliver an address on the subject a while ago and I had to ask Mr. Edison. But he didn't know. He said that there were only two things in the world and electricity was the other one. One is matter. The other is this unknown something which makes matter move. I wonder if his definition might not apply to the world situation now. There are many matters that trouble us and everybody seems to be trying to find out what is the matter. In the end we shall probably have to depend upon electricity to make matters move."

BY HAROLD MacGRATH
The Girl and the Woman
Behind the Girl was the massed power of the Government. Her mission—hazardous in the extreme—tapped the very fountain of thrilling experiences.
Behind the Woman, the world-old power of captivating beauty and alluring manners. "The Yellow Typhoon" they called her in the Orient because of the wreckage she left in her wake—simple men who saw not her tigerish heart.
One day they met—the Girl and the Woman—like a lighted fuse and powder—and the issue between them was settled—as becomes the manner of the Female of the Species.

MUNICIPAL NOTIFICATION
No. 3021.

(Translation)
RICE PROFITEERING.

From investigations made by the Council into the causes contributing to the present abnormally high price of rice, it appears that, in their greed for personal gain and unmindful of the hardships and suffering caused to poor people, certain persons have accumulated stocks of rice, which they are withholding from the market, creating a temporary shortage of supplies, and forcing up the price to an unwarranted figure.

Rice is the staple food of the Chinese people, and profiteering or speculating in the food of the people is an offence against the law, and severely punishable.

Notice is accordingly given that any persons profiteering in rice, whether by the withholding of stocks or by any other means, are liable to prosecution with severe penalties on conviction, and with confiscation of their stocks.

The public is earnestly requested to report any cases of rice profiteering that may come to its knowledge. Such reports should be in writing, addressed to the Commissioner of Police, Central Police Station, Foochow Road, and should give as full particulars as possible, so as to facilitate prosecution against the concerned.

By Order,
N. O. LIDDELL,
Secretary and Commissioner General.

Council Room,

DECLARATION

In the 6th moon of 6th year of the Chinese Republic, Messrs. Wong Chao Ling (王作霖), Sung Kong Szu (宋康如), Chen Buo Yun (程步雲) and Peh Yung Sung (卜榮生) by mutual unanimity, established the Zung Cheong Ziang Piece Goods Dyes and Sundries Store (潤昌祥洋貨顏料和細雜貨號) at Rue Laguerre, French Concession, Shanghai, and I was appointed as manager. At the conclusion of the European War in the following year, there was a surplus of goods imported from America and the exchange rates in sterling and gold dollars were unfavorable, thus causing the selling prices to drop to a very low level.

For some years, I endeavored to fulfil my duties and fortunately, have upheld the business in order. Up to the 15th day of 2nd Fifth Moon this year I handed over to my shareholders, all orders contracted for with the Foreign and Chinese firms, also debit and credit accounts and I have severed connections with the aforesaid store.

Lest the public should not take note of the reason I hereby declare same in the Shun Pao, Sin Wan Pao and this paper.

Dissolution of Partnership

In the 6th year of the Chinese Republic, Messrs. Wong, Peh, Sung and Chen were shared in establishing the Zung Cheong Ziang Piece Goods, Dyes and Sundries Store, at Rue Laguerre, French Concession, Shanghai. At present, owing to the different opinion of the shareholders and the resignation of Mr. Peh Yue An, the Manager, the business with stocks, furniture, fixtures and fittings, also debit accounts have been taken over by the Zung Cheong Ziang Kiu Kee (潤昌舊久記) terms as justly estimated from the 15th day of the 2nd fifth moon this year together with shares in the names of Messrs. Sung and Peh. After amalgamated, the business will be carried on as usual by the new management, (Kiu Kee). All orders contracted for, also debit and credit accounts made with various parties by the Zung Cheong Ziang will be undertaken by the Zung Cheong Ziang Kiu Kee. Hereafter any profit or loss in the business will not be concerned with Messrs. Sung and Peh.

We advertise this in the Shun Pao, Sin Wan Pao and this paper.

The "Allenburys" Milk-Food Chocolate

A dainty, nourishing confection of delicious flavour.

The "Allenburys" Milk-Food Chocolate presents essential nutritive constituents in combination with a chocolate of the highest purity. A complete food in concentrated form, it is digested and assimilated with ease. For children it is an excellent food-sweet, greatly to be preferred to the ordinary starches and sugars which affect the growing teeth and derange the digestion. It is also of great value to athletes, travellers, and in general when a nutritive stimulant is desired.

Hague Parleys May Be Revived

(Reuter's Service)

The Hague, July 17.—M. Litvinoff has sent a letter to the President of the Conference, declaring that agreement is still possible, if the non-Russian delegates abandon their attitude on private property and confine themselves to indicating the countries which are prepared to give economic assistance to Russia.

He proposes to hold sittings of the Presidents of the non-Russian Sub-Commissions and of the members of the Russian Commission to consider the possibility of finding a basis for the continuance of the negotiations.

The Sub-Commissions on private property, debts and credits discussed the situation created by M. Litvinoff's letter and it is semi-officially learned that it was decided that the sub-Commissions should suspend their work, except the Private Property Sub-Commission, and meet the Russians again tomorrow in order to discuss the possibility of finding a basis for continuation of the negotiations. The British delegation have not altered their point of view.

London, July 17.—In the House of Commons today Mr. Lloyd George announced that unless the deadlock at the Hague were dissipated at the eleventh hour the British delegates would return this week.

Chang Tso-lin's Men In Mutiny, Report

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 15.—The troops, supposedly belonging to the Central Government, but really the private property of various military leaders, continue to get out of hand. A telephone message from a special correspondent at Paoting states that a portion of the 27th Division has mutinied near Mukden.

As a result of this over 400 soldiers escaped from the command taking with them arms and ammunition. These troops are under the direct command of General Chang Tso-lin. Unlike most other troubles of its kind, back pay was not the cause of the dissatisfaction.

These troops had been paid up to the end of June.

Lack of occupation apparently led to discontent, which fostered by weak discipline, brought about an open rupture between the men and their leaders. Details are lacking as to what the deserters intend to do.

Simultaneously with that report, we have another from Weihaiwei in Honan announcing the fact that a part of the 24th Division mutinied. In this case the trouble is reported to have arisen through the instigation of the ex Tuchun of Honan, Chiao Ti, who is trying to make it difficult for the present military leaders.

Debt Commission To Visit America

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 18.—It is announced that a special British Delegation will arrive in Washington early in September in connection with the negotiations for the funding of the British debt to the United States.

New Hall Opened By British King

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 17.—The King today opened the London County Council's new Hall, south of Westminster Bridge. Building was interrupted by the war and finally cost £4,000,000. It is expected that the opening of the new Hall will mark the beginning of the reconstruction and beautification of the south bank of the Thames.

Spot and forward bar silver were each down ⅛d. in London yesterday.

The New York price declined to 70¾ cents and the London-New York cross rate is unchanged at 444½.

The only change in the official rates was a rise in the Franc rate to 935.

Our market was steady through the morning with little business doing and practically no variation in rates.

There was sellers of Sterling at all times at 3-6 and of Gold Dollars at 77⅝, with buyers at 3-6 1-16 and 78 respectively.

In the afternoon the market was easier there being buyers of Sterling at 3s. 6d. and of Gold Dollars at 77⅝ with sellers at 3s. 5⅞d. and 77¾ only.

There were very few bills offering, banks quoting to buy Sterling bills at 3-6⅜, Gold Dollar Bills at 79¼ and Franc bills at 945.

China sold silver in London yesterday and India bought at the close.

The market there as well as in New York is steady.

Many Problems In League's Agenda

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 17.—There was much activity at St. James's Palace today on the occasion of the meeting of the Council of the League of Nations. A small crowd watched the arrival of the members of the Council, including Mr. Tang Tsai-fu (China) and Viscount Ishii (Japan).

The morning session was private and was occupied with discussion of the agenda and reports will be discussed at the public meeting this afternoon, which was originally intended to be an extraordinary session to deal only with the Palestine mandate but the Belgian, British and French mandates for East and West Africa and the French mandate for Syria will be submitted for approval.

The Council this afternoon adopted the report on traffic in women and children, advocating various protective measures.

The Secretary-General read a report on the deportations of women and children in Turkey and Asia Minor and it was decided to appoint a commission to deal with the reclamation of the victims in co-operation with the Allied High Commissioners at Constantinople.

The Chinese delegate presented a report on the expenses of the Permanent Court of International Justice, recommending that these should be paid out of the General Budget. The League Council adopted the report on the allocation of the expenses and decided to refer the matter to the various Governments.

The Agenda also includes A and B mandates, proposed by Japan, the famine in Russia and the opium traffic.

The Council decided to request the Governments of the United States and Germany to nominate delegates to the advisory committee for the suppression of traffic in women and children. Mr. Harris, the President of the Committee, stated that the international organisations, combating the traffic, informed him that the situation in these countries, especially in Germany, were such as to cause serious apprehension of recrudescence of the traffic.

Premises Of A Russian Policy

(New Republic)

ENGLAND has a Russian policy. So has France, and Germany. The United States has none. The United States had a policy—a mistaken one, as it turned out—under President Wilson. That policy rested upon the principle of supporting that one of the two contending forces which was assumed to be the more favorable to American international interests and the progress of democracy. The party which President Wilson sought to support was that which still recognised the Constituent Assembly, dispersed by the Bolsheviki, as the true source of authority. It had at least a shadowy reality in the fragmentary "governments" of Archangel and Ufa. Besides, it exhibited a certain amount of vitality, as an opposition party, throughout Russia. President Wilson was deluded into imputing greater strength to it than it had. He would have acted more wisely if he had followed the advice of Colonel Thompson and Raymond Robins, instead of that of Lady Muriel Paget and Professor Bergson. Nevertheless, he was backing an existing party, though a weaker one than he suspected. When he began to realize his mistake he moved toward a readjustment, as his attitude on Prinkipo shows. What further moves he might have made if he had not broken down it is idle to speculate on. Secretary Colby followed slavishly the pre-Prinkipo trend, in spite of its waning promise, and Secretary Hughes has followed the Colby policy down to the present day, although there is nothing left at all of the party it was designed to support. Wilson backed the wrong horse at a time when there was a slight chance that it would win. Hughes is staking his money on the field against the winning horse, after the race has been won.

Therefore it is open to Americans to consider Russian policy from the very first premises. Propaganda aside, what sort of governmental organisation is the Soviet government, and how secure is its hold over the Russian people? Is it possible for Americans to have any dealings with a people under the control of such a government? Are there any important interests of America, material or moral, to be subserved by the opening of normal relations with Russia? It is only when Americans have raised these questions and answered them as conclusively as the available facts permit that they can form a fair judgment as to whether Secretary Hughes is justified in his attitude of pure negation.

The Soviet government, in form but not of course in purpose, is a combination of government and political machine, more like the government of New York City, in the intervals between reform waves, than like the democratic structures outlined in our civics text-books. Lenin is boss and chief magistrate combined. Trotzky, Chicherin, Radek, Lunacharsky and the rest are department heads and sachems combined. At the outset the whole machine derived its motive power from the personal activities of its chief, Lenin. If anything had happened to him the Bolshevik government might have broken down completely. Today the situation is changed. A large group of able lieutenants has been trained up, and anyone of them could take the machine over and run it. We surmise that for many months Lenin has carried scarcely any of the actual work of government, since his health has been in a precarious state. But so far as we can see the vigor and efficiency of the government have not suffered. We hesitate to accept the rumors of Lenin's paralysis, because in the past Lenin has been rumored dead, mad, cancerous, tuberculous and what not whenever the requirements of propaganda made such rumors useful. And there are various indications that the propaganda is flickering up just now. We may cite the horrifying tales appearing in the press of the rifling of Romanoff graves to get gold and gems for famine relief. Watch for a broadside from Mr. Gompers and the National Civil Federation! But propaganda or fact, Lenin's disability or even his death would probably have very little effect on the Soviet machine. They doubtless have a new king pin ready. Tammany might conceivably allow the death of a leader to shake the organisation, but all Tammany has at stake is the jobs. The Russian governing group has not only its power, but the life of every one of its members at stake.

The Soviet organisation has a great deal of stubborn vitality in it, and may be expected to survive through a considerable number of years. That is plainly the opinion of the German and British governments, both of which are in an excellent position to observe Russian events and are equipped with a much better organised foreign intelligence service than our own State Department. It is also the opinion of practically all competent observers who come out of Russia. We may, then, assume as one of the premises of our Russian policy that the Soviet government has a fair degree of permanence, whether we like that kind of government or not.

If that is the case, is it possible for America to enter upon normal relations with Russia at all? Men who like to mix metaphysics with their propaganda are reiterating tediously that as the basis of the Soviet system is communism and the basis of our own system private property, there can be no relations between Russia and ourselves. We have heard equally cogent metaphysics on the irreconcilability of Catholicism and democracy, science and religion. In real life Catholics prove good democrats and science and religion coexist. Soviet theory and American theory may be diametrically opposed, but neither the Russians nor ourselves live on theory. In practice the Soviet government makes a great array of concessions to the principle of private interest, and we make a great array of concessions to the principle of community interest. The Soviet government is constantly making new concessions and so are we. Whether in the end there will be enough of a discrepancy to constitute an irreconcilable difference in theory remains for the future to decide. In the meantime private property wheat and corn sustain life very well in Soviet Russia, and communist hides and furs, paper pulp and flax and petroleum would answer our purposes well, if we could get them, or rather, were we willing to take them. . . .

Is there such a basis for relations between the United States and Russia? Our pre-war trade with Russia was small. The Germans almost monopolised the Russian market. They had got a footing in the period when Americans had enough to do to supply the domestic market. Today for the first time in our history we might have a chance of securing a footing in Russia, if Mr. Hughes would let us. Still, that is not a vital issue with us.

But there is something else that is a vital issue, if we think of it. There are a great many Russians who will owe their lives to American charity. We have seen the number placed at ten millions. Grant that this is an exaggeration; five millions would hardly be an overstatement. Now, we should like to know what Mr. Hoover, who is responsible for most of those five million lives saved, has in mind in respect to their future. Is he willing to contemplate their loss by starvation next year, or the organisation of a succession of relief enterprises? Or is he revolving in his mind some plan of American productive organisation, to make further relief unnecessary? All Russia, including the Soviet authorities, are crying for production, as a drouth stricken province cries for rain. And who is so able to organise production as Mr. Hoover?

Mr. Hoover, to be sure, detests the Soviet government, and the Soviet government detests Mr. Hoover. But they have a common interest in those five million lives saved, but needing to be preserved. And if Mr. Hughes could be sent on some honorific mission, say to the Dalai Lama at Lhassa, leaving Mr. Hoover in charge of Russian relations, a way would be found to preserve those lives. Mr. Hoover would grumble a lot, say a lot of unpremeditated and unnecessary things, and stir up a storm of criticism among the friends of Russia, including ourselves, but he would preserve those lives. That is an objective that would give us a Russian policy of our own, a Russian policy worthy of American ideals and traditions.

-:- Close-Up Of Mars -:-

Our Neighbor Planet Only 42,000,000 Miles Away

BY JAMES C. YOUNG

Mars is almost within handshaking distance—a matter of 42,500,000 miles, and astronomers all over the world have been throughout June watching its fiery red disk for even one sign of the life which so many have believed to exist there. Just at midnight June 18 this neighbor world of ours was almost as close as it ever gets to us, and the nearest since 1909.

Mars recently has been traveling toward the earth at the rate of 1,000,000 miles a day and scientists have watched its coming with an intensity of interest greater than in many years, partly because of the new developments in radio transmission, and partly as a reaction to the increase of speculation about the possibility of Mars being inhabited.

Broadly speaking, all astronomers may be divided into two schools, so far as Mars is concerned. One school believes that it is possible, even probable, that there are people on Mars, and that the thin lines which traverse its surface, as seen through the telescope, really are an elaborate system of canals. The other school denies all of this and demands proof from its opponents. This proof, even of a speculative kind, can be obtained only on such occasions as when Mars is in opposition to the sun and nearest the earth in its progress around the solar body.

A few years ago the idea of communicating with Mars might have been dismissed as an impossibility, but no less an investigator than Marconi has spent several months at sea in a yacht with special equipment endeavoring to form a contact with Mars. And the man who first harnessed the mystery of the wireless is authority for the statement that he has received impulses from some unknown source, but which he was satisfied did not emanate from our planet. Whether this means that we may one day talk to Mars is something which only the future can reveal. Astronomers several times have observed flashes from Mars which they were unable to explain. Some of them have believed that these flashes might have been sent into space from a great electrical instrument modeled on the lines of the heliograph. But these flashes were seen in such a fragmentary way and at such long intervals that no one has succeeded in piecing them together. It might be objected that, even though the Martians had a Morse code of their own, we would have no means of finding the key. But the mathematicians reply that two and two must make four on other worlds as well as our own and they say that if we could communicate with Mars it would not be difficult to work out a code on this basis which would be mutually comprehensible and make possible the exchange of radiograms.

Another way of getting into touch with Mars was suggested by a French engineer about twenty-five years ago, who had been studying the supposed Martian canals. He proposed that we tear up the Sahara Desert and lay a system of canals which would duplicate those on the largest of the Martian continents. He reasoned that the astronomers there would see this change and understand that it was a signal. In order to answer it they would have been compelled, however, to make over the face of another continent, and we would have had to do the same thing again.

THE ROCKET ROUTE

Perhaps the boldest investigator in reference to Mars was the man who offered to be shot over there on a rocket, providing that such a rocket could be made and evidence furnished that he would reach his destination. What could such a man expect to find if he ever reached Mars? He would land on a planet about one-half the size of ours. And the Martian globe is much older than that on which we live, if the astronomers may be believed. Those of the affirmative school say that its oceans are drying up and that Mars has a considerably larger proportion of land to water than our world. Practically all scientific men agree that the inner fires of Mars are going out, and that in the process of a few centuries at the most it will become a dead world, like the moon. Then the affirmative school steps in again and says that the Martians are aware of this peril, and have been seeking to communicate with us for a long time, possibly with a view to obtaining our aid.

The most remarkable thing about Mars, when studied through a telescope, is its system of so-called canals. They are laid out in regular order, the smaller running into the the larger, and these into the major canals, some of which are said to be 3,000 miles long and probably seventy-five miles wide. About 200 of these canals have been mapped and given names by the astronomers, and these are minutely studied inch by inch through telescopes all over the world year in and year out.

It is believed that no vegetation grows on Mars except along the edges of the canals. In Winter these are seen as fine lines, which apparently expand with the coming of Spring until they are easily visible. The amrmative school attributes this to the water flowing into the canals from the polar caps, and contends that as vegetation begins to grow the green expanse on either side of the canals makes them look wider to us. Where the main canals join, the astronomers are able to discern large green spots, thought to be oases, and there the Martians probably have their cities—provided there really are any Martians. Except for the settlements along canals it is likely that the four continents of Mars would be only sparsely inhabited, because no one could live in its desert waste. These four continents have been charted and studied until they are as familiar to the scientists as the globe of our own world to us. The continents are divided by what the affirmative school calls seas, and the negative school deserts. Their few mountains look like ant hills. Time and the action of the weather have worn away any ranges they may have had in ages past until their world is almost flat.

The Martian year is 687 days in length, the time required for this planet to make a revolution around the sun. It is the fourth planet, as ours is the third, in the order of distance from the sun, and more closely resembles our own world than most of the other planets. Our average distance from the sun is 93,000,000 miles and that of Mars 141,500,000. The seasons are believed to be little different from those we have here, but twice as long. And the Martian day is only slightly longer than ours, as the planet rotates in twenty-four hours and thirty-seven minutes.

There are many strange things about Mars. The force of gravity is only 38 percent compared to that of the earth. The difference would imbue an ordinary man from this world with much greater strength, so that all hard work would be made easy. But there are no average men on Mars, according to the believers, for the race is thought to reach something between 12 and 15 feet in height and to be proportionately strong and large. But their great size is no handicap because of the slight force of gravity. And this force of gravity makes all objects on Mars much lighter than here. A rock weighing 100 pounds would have the same size and consistency on Mars, although weighing but 38 pounds. The Martians—granting that there are Martians—not only are stronger than we but deal with lighter materials, making their work many times easier than our own.

PLANET WITH TWO MOONS

If we could stand on Mars at night and look off into the sky we should see two moons. The largest of these is only about seven miles in diameter and 3,700 miles from the surface of the planet. A flight nearly equal to this distance has been made across the Atlantic ocean by dirgible, so that one might travel from Mars to its nearest moon. The second moon has a diameter of six miles and is 12,500 miles away.

The two moons would seem strange to us indeed. The nearer and larger makes a revolution around Mars in seven hours and thirty-nine minutes, which means that it circles the planet three times every day. Instead of rising in the east, like almost every member of the planetary system this moon rises in the west and travels toward the east. But the other and smaller moon rises in the east, and the two thus travel in opposite directions. The smaller moon makes its revolution in thirty hours and eighteen minutes, requiring more than a day to complete its circle. Despite these two moons Mars gets much less light from them than we do from our single moon. 240,000 miles away, because of their small size. They are little more than toys compared to our moon, which is almost one-fourth the size of the earth. The Martians never enjoy the brilliant moonlight nights we know, and when dusk settles their world is only faintly illuminated.

Some investigators are convinced that the Martians have progressed much further than we. They say that the airplane probably was an old thing on Mars when our ancestors still made war with stone hatchets. It is believed that the Martians solved wireless telegraphy and wireless telephony in ages past, and perhaps talk across great distances just as easily as we converse with one another. Such things as trains, ships and automobiles no doubt were abandoned long ago for transportation by air. And the Martians probably have machinery which would make our inventions seem mere playthings.

All of this progress cannot hold back the gradual death of their world. Mars gets only about one-half of the heat and light which we receive from the sun, and scientists affirm that its ordinary temperature is about the same as that of Alaska or Northern Russia. The atmosphere of our neighbors is very thin, or rarefied, somewhat like that on the tallest mountains of this earth. Astronomers long since established that there were almost no clouds around Mars, which means that the air there has very little moisture.

Although 42,500,000 miles may appear to be a long distance between neighbors, even if they happen to be planets, we get a better idea of our close approach to Mars when we reflect that it is 235,000,000 miles away at the furthest point of its orbit, on the other side of the sun from us. It varies about 13,000,000 miles in its orbit, or path, and can be studied to the best advantage when traversing the outside rim of this orbit. When Mars next returns to our side of the sun in 1924 it will come still nearer the earth, its very closest point of approach, approximately 37,000,000 miles. That is the extreme sweep of its orbit toward our world, and the planet gets that close only about once in fifteen years.

Each time Mars draws near it is studied with the greatest care. Faint lines were observed on its surface long ago, but these were not resolved into anything definite until 1879, when Schiaparelli, an Italian observer, laid down the idea that they were canals. He hit upon this name because of their appearance and without any real intention of suggesting that they were an irrigation system. For several years astronomers thought that his canals had been an illusion, until further observation and more powerful telescopes confirmed the Italian. Then the idea began to take shape that these canals were just what their name implied, a huge irrigation system. Schiaparelli set forth his conclusions as follows:

"There are on this planet, traversing the continents, long dark lines which may be designated as canals, although we do not yet know what they are. These lines run from one to another of the sombre spots that are regarded as seas, and form, over the lighter, or continental regions, a well-defined net work. Their arrangement appears to be invariable and permanent. Nevertheless, their aspect and their degree of visability are not always the same, and depend upon circumstances which the present state of our knowledge does not yet permit us to explain with certainty . . . Sometimes these canals present themselves in the form of shadowy and vague lines, while on other occasions they are clear and precise, like a trace drawn with a pen . . . Their tint is very nearly the same as that of the seas, usually a little at both its extremities in a sea, or in another canal; there is not a single example of one coming to an end in the midst of dry land."

It is the precision with which the canals of Mars have been laid out, the way they run into one another and all connect together, that has supplied the strongest foundation for the belief that Mars is inhabited. The affirmative school of investigators has said that there was no such thing as a straight line in nature, and many of the canals on Mars are notably straight. Others take the lines of great circles, or have a lateral curvature. These investigators have held that no complicated system of the kind could be explained except on the basis that it was created by man. They have found strong support for that view from one division of public opinion, but another and a larger division has scouted the idea that Mars might be inhabited. The negative scientific group also is larger than the affirmative, but the idea still persists that there may be, and very likely are, people on Mars. Nobody has succeeded in explaining away those tracings seen through the telescope which have come to be accepted as canals. And when the great red disk sails majestically near us practically every telescope in the world is trained upon it in eager inquiry. Who may say that the Martians are not as eagerly looking toward our world, wondering if it is inhabited, and what kind of people we are? Just as we gaze toward their planet and think that perhaps it is too old a world for any one to live on, so they may look toward ours and speculate as to whether people could exist on a globe so young as this one.

Although Mars will be studied with the most powerful telescopes which ever have been trained upon it, the Martians may have instruments so much more powerful that they can almost see what we are doing. But as our planet has no such bold artificial markings as their system of canals they cannot have visible evidence that our world is inhabited, and that we are looking across the vastness of space, seeking to penetrate the red veil which hides them from our eyes. Even though we cannot as yet comprehend any way to cross this expanse, it is possible that the intelligence of these two worlds may find a way to span the great void by some such magic as the waves of the radio.

THE "JAUNDICED" EYE

When your liver is not functioning properly headaches, bad temper, a bad taste in the mouth, foul breath, constipation, and other depressing symptoms set in and you look upon everything with a gloomy jaundiced' eye.

To remedy these disordered conditions and to bring back cheerfulness into life try Pinkettes, the gentle little laxatives, tonight; you'll surely feel better in the morning.

Chemists everywhere sell Pinkettes, or direct and post free at 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Padang Rubber Company Meeting

The twelfth annual general meeting of the shareholders of Padang Rubber Company, Limited, was held yesterday in the offices of Messrs. A. R. Burkhill and Sons.

The Chairman in his speech announced that the Company had been compelled since the end of last year to discontinue tapping, and this period of non-tapping would enable the estate to be put in order. This was compensated by the exceptionally high yields, and, given a reasonable price, the Company should again show good results.

The Chairman said:

"Gentlemen, the report and accounts having been in your hands for some time, I will follow the usual course and take them as read. The report, as on former occasions, contains the usual crop statistics from which you will note a general all-round improvement in the output and costs over the previous year's figures, but the improvement in costs is considerably more than offset by the reduced price obtained for our output, which reduction amounts to no less than 10d. per lb.

"At the last annual meeting you were informed that the Directors were contemplating a cessation of tapping until an improvement in the price of rubber took place. As you are aware, there was a temporary improvement and tapping was continued throughout the whole year. Since the end of the year, however, the Directors decided to discontinue tapping as the annual estimates showed that with rubber at about its present price the loss on working with no tapping would be practically the same as if this were continued. The company has sold forward two tons monthly January-December 1922 at 43 cents f.o.b. Singapore, but arrangements have been made to buy in against any portion of this that we are unable to deliver.

"As indicated at previous meeting, the condition of the trees is far from satisfactory, and this resting will be of undoubted benefit to the estate. The period of non-tapping will afford a good opportunity of putting the estate in order by the removal of burred and diseased trees.

"The following is an extract from J. W. Kennedy's recent report on the Estate: There is not the least doubt that the best thing that could happen to Wellington would be a prolonged rest for the trees, and I give it as my opinion that if the trees could be rested for say two years that at the end of that time exceptionally high yields would be forthcoming and consequently costs would be brought down very considerably.

"The length of time the trees can be rested is, of course, dependent on the financial situation, the Company has a considerable amount of cash, enough to provide for efficient upkeep for at least four years. The resumption of tapping depends on the price ruling for rubber, as owing to the configuration and health conditions of the estate, no labor except Chinese can be employed. This class of labor is, as you know, expensive and requires a lot of supervision and, therefore, we cannot hope to produce at as low figures as estates more favorably situated. We are compensated, however, to a certain extent by exceptionally high yields, and given a reasonable selling price, the Company should again show good results. How long it will be before a rise to this level occurs I am of course unable to say, but in the meantime it is obviously unwise to waste the real assets of the property by the removal of bark at a loss.

"I regret to again have to comment on the bad health conditions which are responsible for another change in management. Mr. le Doux's health broke down to such an extent that he became affected mentally and committed suicide. A successor has been appointed and so far has kept in good health. Unless, however, this is maintained, it will probably be necessary to make arrangements for housing the management off the Estate.

"The Accounts call for no comment, but before answering any questions, I would like to express the Directors appreciation of the good work done by Mr. Gowland, who took temporary charge on Mr. le Doux's death, and also our thanks to Mr. Kennedy, our Visiting Agent and to our Penang Agents, Messrs. Kennedy & Co. for their good care of our interests."

The report and accounts for the year ended 30th. April 1922 together with the recommendation as to appropriation of balance at credit of profit and loss account were unanimously passed.

Mr. Chun Bing-him was re-elected a Director of the Company, and Messrs. G. H. and N. Thomson re-elected Auditors to the Company.

Masked Burglar Dead In Pistol Fight

ADAM Prochowski, the original chloroform burglar, was shot to death by a private detective when he sought to enter the home of Henry A. Blair, president of the Chicago Surface line, to rifle his art collection. Prochowski, graduate of Warsaw University, Poland; linguist, athlete and grand opera patron, was a genius who went wrong. He was sentenced to the Illinois Penitentiary in 1917 and two months ago escaped. When killed he carried a pistol, though it had long been his boast he was so good he relied on nerve and skill to save him in an emergency.

Financial Body Enlarged, Dr. Koo's Scheme Approved

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 15.—The Cabinet today approved the enlarging of Dr. Koo's National Commission for the study of financial problems by the addition of Mr. Chow Cha-yen, former Vice Minister of Finance; Mr. Lo Shing-ming, also former Vice Minister of Finance; Mr. Wei To of the Wine and Tobacco Bureau; Mr. Chin Yi, a well known financial expert; and Mr. Chu Chien. This brings the Commission up to some 20 members.

The initial meeting was held last Tuesday when the various sub-committees were appointed. The Commission itself will not have any stated time for meeting but will be subject to call of the Chairman. The Sub-Committees in the meantime will go on studying phases of the financial state through the aid of the data secured by their investigators who have been at work for some time.

Chen's Troops Retreat--and Loot

(Kuo Wen News Agency)

Hongkong, July 16.—Gen. Chen Chiung-ming's troops are retreating along the Canton-Hankow Railway from Yingtak, where they suffered a number of reverses at the hands of the forces under Gen. Hsu Tsung-chih. As they retreated, Chen's troops followed their old practice of plundering and raping at every place they passed.

Gen. Chen Chark has captured Kongmoon for President Sun Yat-sen and is making preparations to attack Samshui and Lupao. A large number of Chen Chiung-ming's troops, finding they were nearly surrounded by Chen Chark's forces have thrown away their arms and munitions and fled.

Two ying of Gen. Chung King-tong's troops have laid down their arms before the terrific attack of Gen. Chu Chak-ming in Heungshan. An early settlement of the Canton situation is imminent.

Joe Lynch Again Champ Of Bantams

New York, July 10.—Joe Lynch today regained the bantamweight title, defeating Johnny Buff with a technical knockout. This was delivered in the 14th round of a bout scheduled to last 15 rounds. Lynch's smashing attack floored the champion, who was already groggy in six seconds of fighting.

MILITARISTS' GREED TOO MUCH, TUNG KANG SAYS

Finance Minister Insists Upon Resigning

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 15.—Tung Kang is insistent on the acceptance of his resignation by the President. Following the resignation of the cabinet on Thursday and President Li Yuan-hung's refusal to consider it, matters have been in a turmoil and at the Cabinet meeting this morning they were ready to again present their resignation.

In addition to the Cabinet's joint action in asking to be released, Tung Kang this morning sent in his personal resignation. He is acting on the grounds that even the greatest of financial wizards would come to an impasse when confronted with the duties of the Minister of Finance at the present moment.

The Provinces have not remitted anything for a long time, except small sums collected through the Wine and Tobacco Bureau. The Chinese Banking Group is loath to make any more advances and foreign loans are impossible because of the opposition. The militarists are constantly demanding large sums when there is no source from which to meet them. The more money they get the more they ask for, consequently he is perfectly willing to let someone else take a hand in the game.

President Li Yuan-hung naturally has again refused the resignation of the Cabinet but it puts it on record as being permitted to finish when the Parliament meets. Therefore, the question of the make up of the new Cabinet is receiving attention from the Presidential office as well as from the members of Parliament. It is reliably heard that an entire new set of men will be picked. Heretofore, it was believed that Dr. Yen would be asked to head the new body but there is strong opposition and another man is being groomed for the premiership.

However, Tung Kang's strong feelings takes the Cabinet resignation out of the merely formal status of a departing body, and places it in a political crisis. Even were Parliament not meeting, the Yen Cabinet would have gone under.

If the militarists were friendly in the first place, the Finance Minister has lost their goodwill by being unable to produce the money promptly when demanded by the war lords. The mere fact that there was none to produce seemed to be aside from the question.

LLOYD'S SHOWS BIG INCREASE IN WORLD TONNAGE

United Kingdom Still Leads With 19,053,000 Tons

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 18.—The new Lloyd's Register shows that the net increase of steam tonnage as compared with the pre-war tonnage is 14,288,000 tons, and as compared with the previous year 2,500,000 tons.

The largest increases during the year were: Germany 1,131,000 tons: Holland 409,000 tons: British Dominions 258,000 tons: France 239,000 tons: Japan 232,000 tons and Italy 231,000 tons, while the United Kingdom showed a decrease of 231,000 tons, doubtless owing to the amount of tonnage sold abroad.

The United Kingdom, however, with 19,053,000 tons still heads the list of steamers, an increase of only 176,000 as compared with pre-war tonnage, although ex-enemy tonnage is included.

The United States is second with 12,506,000 tons, an increase of 10,669,000 tons as compared with her pre-war tonnage, and Japan, who was sixth before the war, is now third.

The United States is the only country that has added sailing tonnage since 1914, largely barges.

NEW MINISTRY
(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 17.—The London Times announces that the new Kemalist Ministry is constituted as follows: Premier, Raouf Bey: Foreign Affairs, Youssouf Kemal Bey: War, Kiazim Bekir, and Chief of Staff, Fekir Pasha.

APPEALS FOR AID
(Kuo Wen News Agency)

Peking, July 16.—Marshal Tsao Kun has reported that as a result of the fighting in Szechuen between Liu Hsiang and Tan Mou-hsin, the former has sent a representative to Gen. Wu Pei-fu in Loyang and asked for aid. It is suggested that the Chihli troops in western Hupeh be transferred to the Szechuen front to aid Liu.
